Member Spotlight

JEANNE CLAVEL

Jeanne's life has not always evolved around skating, even though her young years were spent in CT. Skating for her, started at the age of 50. Her daughter had been thriving into this fabulous sport, one day, the adult instructor at the rink suggested that the adults who were freezing on the bleachers while watching their children should also try skating. She then thought it was fabulous idea!

When on the ice, she feels like life slips behind her as she works on the different elements! One thing she loves about skating is that it builds character, she also enjoys seeing young ladies and gents skating with the adults. As a "senior" skater (as she calls herself), she finds it fun to continue to learn, re-learn and implement what has been learned! She very much admires her coach's patience. She is currently under the tutorship of Debbie Allen. Starting with the fear of an adult and skating skills of a two-year-old (at least that's how she felt), has not always been easy, but one thing she often reminds herself is to keep "Getting Up"!

Outside of skating, Jeanne is a GA pilot (though now she doesn't do much of it anymore), a shag dancer, and a beauty and personal care consultant.

QUOTE OF THE MONTH
